

JOE HANDRICK

Joe Handrick has been active in or around state government since 1987. Joe served in the office of Governor Tommy Thompson and was the administrator of the unemployment insurance program and equal rights division for Governor Scott Walker.

Handrick served six years in the State Assembly representing the Minocqua area and also was the Minocqua Town Chairman. People on Twitter know him as @joeminocqua. Political leaders and the presser follow Joe's Twitter feed closely on election nights for the inside scoop on how the elections are going.

Handrick has been a central player in Wisconsin redistricting for three decades. In 1991 the federal courts adopted Handrick's legislative map for Milwaukee County.

Joe currently serves as the Executive Director of Common Sense Wisconsin, a conservative policy organization. Joe is a 1996 graduate of the University of Wisconsin school of Occupational Therapy
